

Claims I claim:

A hook having at one end of said hook a reversing first bight said first bight sufficiently opposite of said hook and having at its other end a second reversing bight said second bight being sufficiently opposite of said first bight and sufficient in length to be operational.